

Storage Hunters

A fly on the wall series which follows Sean and Lori Kelly's auction company, who sell off the hidden contents of storage units. Many people use these units to house some of their treasured items. But those that fail to pay their rent for 32 days are in for a nasty shock...the owners can cut their lock and sell all of their worldly possession to the highest bidder. Each episode of Storage Hunters visits two different auctions, and the series is a unique glimpse into the winner-take-all world of storage unit auctions, where the highest bidder has a shot at making a quick profit. But once the door to the mini-storage unit is opened, prospective buyers can only peer inside from the doorway.